CITY COUNCIL.

The Council was called to order at 8 p. m. Present: His Worship Mayor Fell in the chair and Councillors Lipsett, Higgins, Vigelius, Styles, Barnard, Grant, Robertson, Humber, and Smith.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS

were read from property owners on Fort street asking for the continuation of the sidewalk ending at Mr. Jos. Heywood's residence to Fernwood; also that the portion opposite Mr. Justice Crease's residence be covered in.

Councillor Grant moved that the petition be referred to the Street Committee. Carried.

From Mr. W. C. Ward, calling attention to the fitful and inadequate supply of water at and in the neighborhood of his residence, Moss street.

Referred to the Water Works Committee and Water Commissioner.

From Mr. Joshua Moody complaining of the bad state of the sidewalk on Johnson street, between Blanchard and Quadra. Referred to Street Committee.

From residents of the north side of west end of Simcoe street, calling attention to the impassable condition of that street during rainy weather and asking for a sidewalk there. Referred to Street Committee.

From residents of Boyd street, asking for the extension of the water pipes to that locality a distance of about 800 feet, and offering to contribute $50 towards expenses of same.

Referred to Water Committee.

From George Moore, asking permission to connect a half-inch pipe with the main on Henry street to afford him a supply of water for a brick-yard.

Referred to Water Committee and Commissioner.

From residents on Discovery street, asking that the street be gravelled to enable them to obtain ready access to their respective properties, especially during the winter months.

Referred to the Street Committee for report.

From ratepayers and residents of Elizabeth street, asking that the same or a portion of it be graded and gravelled.

Referred to the Street Committee for report.

FINANCE

Accounts for the past month amounting to $2,193.12 were read and referred to the Finance Committee for payment if found correct.

Councillor Higgins hoped the Council would pause before continuing to incur such heavy liabilities at such an alarming rate. Where would they fetch up? It should be borne in mind that each councillor was individually responsible for the excessive liability.

Councillor Humber thought that the present was not the right way to do business at all. It was loose and every councillor should know what the articles were purchased for and who was instructed to supply them and at what figure.

Councillor Grant called the attention of Councillor Higgins to the fact that the system adopted by the Council was precisely the same as that in force with the Provincial and Dominion governments. In the latter cases all the accounts were supposed to be certified too by one man and then they were paid. It required two of the Finance Committee of the Council to constitute a quorum and every account was carefully checked by the committee and examined by the City Treasurer.

TENDERS

were then read as follows for building a bridge and grading on Bay street: Noel LeClaire $190; James Baker, $249; P. Gilligan, $496.

Awarded to the lowest bidder.

For cambering and gravelling Second street, (Johnson street ward): Jas. Baker, $294; Abel Beswick, $335; Willis Bond, $710.

Councillor Grant moved that the consideration of these tenders be deferred. Johnson street ward had already had a sum expended in it equal to Yates and Fort street wards put together. He had to stand up for Yates street ward and would state that Fort street was in a most shameful condition, rocks sticking up in the roadway as big as any man's hat. This, one of the principal streets, certainly had a prior claim.

Councillor Barnard and Higgins favored the delay.

Councillor Humber and Robertson said that it came with very bad grace from Councillor Grant to first call for tenders and then, after putting the contractors to so much trouble, to propose to shelve the tenders.

The tenders were deferred for one week for consideration.

PARK KEEPER.

Applications were read from the following for the position of Beacon Hill Park keeper: C. H. McCorlick, Geo. Webb, Edwin Wagge, John Creed, John McKinley, Wm. Neild, John Cox, D. P. Kingsbury, Chas. Wilkes, Hy. Cathcart, Hy. R. Horn, Peter Corr, Edward Macdonald, Joseph Macdonald, J. E. Blackmore, Geo. Wilkinson, Andrew Salton, Wm. Hawksby, Chas. W. Baker.

On a ballot being spread the following vote was announced:—McKinley 1, Baker 2, McCorlick 2, Corr 2, Webb 2.

Second ballot:—Baker 1, McCorlick 1, Webb 5, McKinley 1, Corr 1.

His Worship than declared George Webb duly elected.

CITY POLICE OFFICER.

Applications were read from David G. Macdonald, John C. McCloud, Joshua Sullivan, Jos. Smith, John Haughton, Edward Abel, R. D. S. Grant, John Smith and Dan. McLachlan.

The first ballot spread resulted:—John Haughton, 2; John Smith, 1; Jos. Smith, 3; Abel, 1; Grant, 2.

Second ballot:—John Smith, 1; John Haughton, 2; Jos. Smith, 4; Grant, 2.

Third ballot:—Smith, 6; Haughton, 3; and the Mayor declared Joseph Smith duly elected.

OFFICERS' REMUNERATION

Consolidated By-law, was on motion of Councillor Grant read a first time.

THE CITY GAOLER.

Councillor Higgins moved that as the appointment of Neil Henley as gaoler cannot be rescinded, or his services be dispensed with without the usual thirty days' notice, be it Resolved, That this Council decline to continue the employment of said N. Henley, and that in lieu of his appointment he be tendered one month's salary. Resolved, That the Council proceed to ballot to fill the vacancy.

The Councillor said he was constrained to take the action because he believed there were many old hands who were thoroughly qualified to fill the position and would be glad to do so. Mr. McCloy who had been instrumental in preventing the escape of several young prisoners a few months ago had been a faithful servant of the Provincial government, and had been a resident of the province for the last ten years, always paying his taxes.

Councillors.—What taxes?

Councillor Higgins.—Road tax.

After a long pause during which no Councillor rose to second the resolution, Councillor Barnard rose to his feet and said that he would do so. When he last voted on the appointment of Neil Henley he had done so under a misapprehension. He had been misled and so he believed had the Council. It was too late, however, to correct a mistake and that was why he seconded the resolution.

Councillor Grant said that Henley had been a resident of the country some ten years ago and had recently been a resident for much more than three weeks. So far as the contention went that he was a new comer he (Councillor Grant) could point to other instances wherein strangers had been appointed to positions. He thought it was extremely unfair to Mr. Henley after appointing him to the position of gaoler to discharge him without any complaint whatever against him and without any evidence as to incompetency. It was, moreover, extreme folly to give Mr. Henley or anybody else $60 for doing nothing and on that ground also he was opposed to the resolution. He would therefore, move in amendment that all the words after "that" be struck out and the following inserted. If in the opinion of this Council it shall be considered desirable that Mr. N. Henley's services as gaoler after the expiration of thirty days should be dispensed with; be it Resolved: That 30 days notice be given now to the said Henley that his services may be dispensed with or retained as this Council may deem best.

Councillor Robertson spoke strongly against Councillor Higgins' resolution as an extraordinary innovation and altogether uncalled for. He could only think that it was done for mere political purposes for no complaint had been made against Mr. Henley and he (Councillor Robertson) fully believed that the appointee was quite competent to fill the position of gaoler.

Councillor Smith seconded Councillor Grant's amendment.

Councillor Humber was surprised at Councillor Robertson's remarks, because the Council had ignored hands with families depending on them for the sake of a new comer or a single man as was the case in the appointment made of Park Keeper. He (Councillor Humber), however, was opposed to squandering $60 for Mr. Henley or anybody else and he felt inclined for this reason to support Councillor Grant's amendment.

Councillor Smith said the resolution proposed to give Mr. Henley $60, and there would be no return whatever for it. He would like to know if Councillor Barnard would discharge one of his men and give him $60 for nothing.

Councillor Grant, in closing the debate said that he had not voted for Mr. Henley, as had been insinuated, simply because he had promised another candidate. He had not heard one word in support of discharging Mr. Henley, and it had not been shown that any mistake had been made. He proposed that the Council give Mr. Henley 30 days' notice from date, and if at the expiration of that period the Council thought that Henley was incompetent, or if a legitimate complaint had been brought against him, then he could be summarily discharged.

Councillor Styles was in favor of appointing an old time resident of the province in the event of Henley being discharged. It was strange that when Henley was appointed an old resident only got two votes.

On division Councillor Grant's amendment was lost, five to four.

The original motion was then carried—to $60 without any return—on the following division:

For—Barnard, Higgins, Styles, Vigelius, Lipsett—5.

Noes—Grant, Smith, Humber, Robertson—4.

Councillor Higgins urged that the Council proceed at once to ballot for a gaoler.

Councillor Grant protested strongly. Who were they to ballot for? and how did they know that the applicants at the last appointment were applicants now? No applications were before the Council now.

Councillor Higgins: Then let that portion of my resolution lapse.

Councillor Grant: No; I object. The Council cannot agree to let the resolution drop.

Councillor Smith said it was apparent Councillor Higgins had not properly digested his resolution.

The matter, pro tem, was left in the hands of the Mayor.

STREET SPRINKLING.

Councillor Robertson moved that a sum of not more than $200 be appropriated for the purchase of a street sprinkler. He would, however, inform the Council that the work could be done for $100 per month, including driver and horses.

Councillor Barnard said that if the Council could have the use of the Fire Department horses he would favor the resolution.

Councillor Smith said that, as a fire-warden, he most emphatically objected to the Fire Department horses being put to any such work.

Councillor Humber was astonished that any councillor should desire to see the horses standing idle simply waiting for the fire bell to ring.

Councillor Vigelina also protested against the Fire Department horses being used for the work.

Councillor Lipsett could not see why the horses should not be used. In the City of San Jose the Fire Department horses were employed for hauling gravel.

Councillor Grant thought it would be wise to purchase one of the sprinklers that had been used last year.

The resolution was carried with the proviso that the Fire Department horses be used.

SIDEWALK.

Councillor Barnard moved that a sidewalk be laid on the south side of Simcoe street.

Laid over for one week.

PUBLIC MARKET.

The Select Committee appointed to confer with the government to ascertain whether the lower portion of the building to be used as law courts on the site of the Bastion street gaol could be used for city market, stated that they had interviewed the government who had said in the first place that the matter would receive their serious consideration. Subsequently, however, it had been seen that the government had invited tenders for plans for the law courts and no mention was made of the city market, so it was apparent the government intended to do nothing in the matter.

Several councillors stated that the premier had distinctly asserted that there was no room at the Bastion street gaol for a public market. It would all be required for the law courts.

The report was received and the committee discharged.

ELECTRIC LIGHT MASTS.

The report of the committe on the locations for the new electric light masts was read and adopted.

CITY LOCK-UP.

The committee reported on their scheme to provide a city lock-up at the rear of the City Hall; also on other police matters.

JAMES BAY BRIDGE.

The City Surveyor reported that he had caused the examination of James Bay bridge to be made and found that the stringers under the planking were rotten at their heads.

Councillor Smith was surprised at this report now, because only a few months ago the City Surveyor had said the stringers were sound. He (Coun. Smith) had at that time said that the bridge was not safe and it would not hang together now if it were not strongly bound.

Referred to the Street Committee for further consideration.

WOOLLEN MILL.

The select committee reported that they had forwarded to Messrs. Waterhouse & Co., Brantford, Ont., all the information relative to a woollen mill as requested by that firm.

CITY POLICE AGAIN.

The report from Superintendent Bloomfield on the status of the City Police force and setting forth incidental expenses, &c., was read and referred to the Police Committee.

WATER SUPPLY.

Councillor Smith stated that the Water Committee were getting up an alternative scheme for providing a more adequate supply of water to the city. The proposed works would cost a great deal of money—more than the existing works did in the first place. He would ask that the committee be granted another week to mature their report.

Councillor Lipsett moved that the Water Works Committee be authorized to employ a man at $2 per day to watch parties who are wilfully wasting the city water.

Carried after protest from Councillor Higgins.

STORAGE OF INFLAMMABLES.

Councillor Barnard said that he was informed that a very large quantity of coal oil was stored within the city limits, on Lawrence street, James Bay. No application for such storage had been made. Referred to the Police Committee.

CITY POUND.

Councillor Higgins informed the Council that the City Pound would be ready for use in a day or two and asked that water be supplied to it.

Council adjourned at 11:45 p. m.

THE FISHERY TROUBLE.

Armed American Schooners Going to Smash "Our Navy."

The Bellerophon Gone to N. F.—40,000 Troops for Halifax.

NEW COMPLICATIONS.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Representative Boutelle received a telegram to-day from Eastport to the effect that the Dominion collectors of customs threaten to seize the American boats if they buy herring from the fish weirs on provincial shores to be used for canning in the United States. A large business of this kind has been carried on at Eastport and vicinity, nearly all the fish being brought from provincial weirs. The American boatmen are afraid to continue the traffic and large numbers of people on both sides of the line are affected. Mr. Boutelle and Senator Hale this afternoon called on Secretary Bayard, who promised to take immediate steps to ascertain the facts. This was a denial of ordinary privileges of commerce, but he remarked that as diplomatic negotiations on this subject must be conducted through the English home government they are necessarily slow.

NEW YORK, June 3.—A Digby, N. S., special to the Commercial Advertiser says that two of the police cruisers have gone to Newfoundland to watch the American fishermen. Yesterday a dispatch was received from St. Johns that two American schooners, heavily armed, were in that neighborhood, boasting they would sink any police boat sent against them. One is believed to be the New York schooner Herrick. The Dominion fishermen are alarmed that these boats may take it into their heads to practice upon some of their crafts. The man-of-war Bellerophon has been sent to St. Johns to look these combative Americans up.

Captain Scott, Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian fishery police, has retired to his home in Newfoundland and intends to shortly send in his resignation, being disgusted with his duties. He will resume his old position as chairman of Dominion Marine board.

Information received this morning states that forty thousand British troops have been ordered to Halifax. Why they are needed is unknown.

CONDENSED TELEGRAMS.

Judge Murphy, San Francisco, has sentenced Dr. J. Milton Bowers to be hanged for the murder of his wife by poisoning in order to obtain $17,000 insurance on her life.

The great balloon trip across the continent from San Francisco, has been abandoned, and the gas let out of the balloon. No reason was given.

Ex-Surveyor Morton, of San Francisco, has gone as a purser on an Australian steamer.

John Kelly, ex-Tammany Chief, died in New York at 3:20 on Tuesday.

Johann Most, Anarchist, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary and fined $500. His associate, Braunschweig, got nine months in the penitentiary and was fined $250. Schench was sent to the penitentiary for nine months but was not fined. None of the prisoners attempted to speak a word in court. They were taken back to the Tombs and will be transferred to Blackwell's Island.

YELLOW FEVER.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Private advices received to-day from Colon state that yellow fever is now epidemic on the Isthmus. The average daily number of deaths is stated to be above forty.

THE HOME RULE DEBATE

Mr. Chamberlain's Speech in Opposition to the Bill.

An Attack Upon the Parnellites—Position of Ulster.

LONDON, June 1.—The debate on the Home Rule bill in the House of Commons was resumed this afternoon by Joseph Chamberlain. When he arose he was greeted with derisive cheers and howls from the Irish members.

At great length he explained why he deemed Gladstone's concessions inadequate. Those who oppose the Home Rule measures believe that it would prove most mischievous in its effect on Ireland, and would postpone for a long time the satisfactory settlement of the Irish question. There had been in some Liberal quarters a desire to minimize the importance of the division on the second reading of the bill. The members had been told that the bill was already dead. The speaker did not believe that Gladstone would accept a vote on the second reading on the understanding that he was receiving only an approval of an abstract resolution that Ireland ought to have a parliament of her own. Had the government submitted a mere resolution affirming the principle of legislative autonomy for Ireland, he (Chamberlain) could vote for it, because it would not be inconsistent either with a chamber like the Grattan parliament or the establishment of a legislative council such as the speaker suggested, and which ere now had received the support of the Nationalists. [Cries from the Parnellites, "Names! Names!" The government proposal, however, had a stronger meaning than that of a mere abstract resolution in that it pledged the House to the support of the principle of the Home Rule bill, from which Gladstone said he would never depart. The speaker and those who thought with him had hoped since Gladstone's speech at the Foreign office that the Home Rule bill might be so remodelled that they could vote for it, but they had been disappointed. Gladstone had since practically stated in the House of Commons that if the bill passed its second reading it would be suspended until October and then be reintroduced, unaltered except in minor details concerning minor features of the Irish representation at Westminster. Those who agreed with the speaker did not wish to reduce Ireland to the condition of a self governing colony, and the changes promised by Gladstone would not meet the views of those who maintained this position.

Under the amended proposal of the premier, the Irish members might be invited to take part in the discussion and to vote on imperial expenses like those of the Russian and Egyptian wars. In questions relating to such matters constantly arising, and in order to take effective part in the discussion, the Irish members would require to be constantly present at Westminster. It would be impossible to make the House of Commons a fluctuating body such as it would be under Gladstone's proposals. It would be equally unwise to create an Irish Parliament as a subordinate and not a co-ordinate body (Cheers). What they wanted was to prevent the Irish members from becoming omnipotent either at Westminster or Dublin. (Cheers).

As to Ulster, that very important matter (Parnellite laughter), the speaker would not go into the question of armed resistance, although he resented as absurd Parnell's charge that he said anything inciting assassinat on or outrage [cheers], but were the resistance of Ulster to the Dublin government expressed in a constitutional way, would a British House of Commons override or disregard that resistance? [Hear, hear!] Why had the resistance of the Protestants of Ulster been stigmatized as unpatriotic? Was it because they are proud of belonging to a great empire and opposed to being cut adrift from long familiar associations as members of the United Kingdom? In defending Ulster he was governed by no religious bitterness. There could, however, be no doubt that the Protestants of Ulster were peaceful. He belonged to a family that always opposed anything like religous ascendancy. He was convinced that the Protestants of Ulster had just cause to fear attempts by the Irish Catholics to secure the predominance of the Catholic church, for it is a faith bound not to be content with equality. [Cries—"Oh! Oh!"] The members from Ireland say "No." Here is a pamphlet written by the Prime Minister on Vaticanism [laughter] in which he says: "To secure civil rights is the aim of Christian civilization, while to destroy them and re-establish resistless domineering action as the central power is the aim of Roman policy." That is the absolute truth.

Alluding to the reference during the debate on the case of Canada, Chamberlain contended that it was a natural conclusion from what happened in Lower Canada after the reform of 1836, that reforms like those would have to be granted Ireland if the bill carried. And furthermore, concession after concession would have to be made to Ireland, until there came the ultimate demand for separation. (Hear, hear.)

Demands had been made to him to state an alternative to Gladstone's proposals. He suggested certain lines upon which the measure might have proceeded. His plan had been described as a "popkins" plan and those approving it were called puny whipsters by a man whose magnificent physique enabled him to look down on men not gifted by Providence with his great personal gifts. [Laughter.] It was hard upon them to be accused of arrogance and presumption and be called whipsters when they honestly endeavored to meet the demand for an alternative scheme.

They were threatened with a dissolution. (Cheers and counter cheers.) Dissolution had no terrors for him. Of one thing he was confident—namely, that the Unionists majority in Parliament would be strengthened. (Cheers, and cries of "Oh, Oh.") He rejoiced that this great issue would soon be submitted to the only tribunal whose decision they could accept. (Parnellite cheers.) He trusted in the ultimate good sense and patriotism of the British democracy.

"There is not a man who does not know this every personal and political interest would have led me to cast my lot with Gladstone. Not a day passes on which I do not receive scores of letters urging me for my own sake to rule for the bill and dish the Whigs. The temptation no doubt is great, but I am not base enough to gratify mere personal ambition by betraying my country. [Loud cheers.] I am convinced that when this discussion is over the Liberals will not judge harshly those who pursued honestly the path of duty, even though it leads to the disruption of the party and the loss of personal influence and power, which it is the legitimate ambition of every man to seek among his political friends and associates. [Loud and prolonged cheering by the Conservatives.]

DIVISION ON MONDAY.

LONDON, June 3.—In the Commons this afternoon Hicks-Beach, Conservative, pressed Gladstone to fix a date for the division on the second reading of the Home Rule bill. Labouchere, Radical, protested against the fixing of an early date, announcing that twenty-seven supporters of the measure desired to speak before the vote. Gladstone fixed Monday as the day for the division.

EXPELLING ROYALISTS.

PARIS, June 2.—The Committee of the Chamber of Deputies, having the government's expulsion bill in charge, decided to-day by a vote of six to five that the measure be compulsory and not permissive. Secondly, that it be applied to all members and all families which at any time reigned in France. Thereby, that the degree of banishment be pronounced by the legislature and not by the executive.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. John Gilmore, of Nicola, is in town.

Mr. Robert F. Drummond, mail clerk on the C. P. R. and bride, have gone down to Portland and will return next week.

Mr. Geo. Bishop, of Vancouver, is about starting for a few months visit to Scotland.

Mr. R. B. Angus, of the C. P. R., left for Montreal to-day via the N. P. He sails for Europe on the 19th, and on his return will come to British Columbia, it is expected not later than the middle of August.

Mr. Hammond, of Toronto, who came out with Mr. Angus returned with him to-day. It is understood that he represents capitalists in the east and in Europe who are interesting themselves in our province.

Mr. Geo. Edman, a printer in the employ of Mr. Miller for several years, has started for Australia, shipping as an able-bodied seaman on the Drifting Sophia, a lumber-laden bark bound for Adelaide.

Mrs. J. B. Walker has returned from New York where she has been during the past two months. It is said that by the death of a relation there she has fallen heir to a considerable fortune.

At the Oriental to-day: A B Parfurst, San Francisco; Mrs H Wetherbee, Portland, Miss Della Wetherbee, E P Thompson, Portland.

A GREAT SOCIAL EVENT.

President Cleveland Married at Washington Yesterday.

The Guests Present—Officiating Clergymen—The Bride's Dress.

WASHINGTON, June 2, 9:25 p. m.—The President and Miss Folsom have just been married.

About 6:30 o'clock the wedding guests began to arrive, their carriages drawing up to the main door on Pennsylvania avenue. The first arrival was Secretary Lamar, at 6:37. He was closely followed by Dr. Sunderland and wife, and during the next few minutes there came in quick succession, Postmaster-General Vilas and wife, Mr. W. S. Bissell, Secretary and Mrs. Endicott, Secretary and Mrs. Bayard, Secretary and Mrs. Whitney, and Secretary Manning and his wife. Removing their wraps in the state dining room, all the guests proceeded to the blue room, where they were received by Miss Rose Cleveland, and for a few minutes the guests chatted gaily, but the conversation was quickly suspended at 7:05 p. m., when a selected orchestra from the Marine band, stationed in a corridor, struck up the familiar strains of the wedding march from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream," and all eyes were turned toward the doorway to catch a glimpse of the coming bride and groom. Starting from the western corridor or upper floor, the President came slowly down stairway with his bride leaning on his arm. They were unaccompanied, even the bride's mother was awaiting her with other guests. Passing through the central corridor the bride and groom entered the club room and took a position near its southern wall, which was completely hidden from sight by a mass of nodding palms, tropical grass and an endless variety of choice flowers. A crystal chandelier poured a flood of mellow radience upon the scene and colors. Massive banks of scarlet legonias, royal Jacquinot roses, mingled with the blue and silver lines of the frescoed walls and ceiling, gave a warm and glowing tone to the whole brilliant interior. The delicate ivory shades of the bride's wedding gown found an exquisite setting in masses of crimson roses. Immediately beyond, the President was in full evening dress with a turned down collar, long necktie, and white studs. A hush fell upon the assembly as Dr. Sunderland slipped forward to his position, fronting the wedding couple, with Rev. William Cleveland (the President's brother) on his left hand. In a distinct voice and with a deliberate utterance the Dr. began and concluded the simple and beautiful wedding service.

LONDON, June 2.—The Telegraph this morning commenting on President Cleveland's marriage says it was a graceful act on the part of Mr. Cleveland to show that the President of the United States does not descendate from his exalted position by making his wedding of the plainest and simplest character.

LONDON, June 3.—The Queen has sent the following cable message to President Cleveland. "Pray accept my sincere congratulations on your marriage, and my best wishes for your happiness."

PARLIAMENT PROROGUED.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The only thing which pains us in connection with the coming struggle with the United States is the physical impossibility of scratching the Bird of Freedom baldheaded.

Last year the United States imported $43,000,000 worth of cotton goods, $40,000,000 of iron and steel, $37,000,000 of silk, $19,000,000 of linen, $8,000,000 of jute, besides much else that ought to have been manufactured at home.

Cotton crop accounts received from all parts of Texas are the worst and most alarming for many years. The condition of affairs is so bad that, unless rain sets in within a week, the present prospect is that not a third of the crop will be raised.

MONSIGNOR Benier, aged 60 years, a prelate in the Pope's household and an eminent writer and preacher, who is a descendent of the Venetian Doges, has appeared before the Rev. Dr. Nevin in the American church of St. Paul at Rome, and entered the Anglican Episcopal Church.

IN the course of his remarks on the monopoly question, Sir John Macdonald explained that the bar to railways to the south applied equally to the C. P. R. and that the railway being for the Dominion as a whole, the Canadian Pacific, no more than any other railway, would be permitted to build south in the direction now forbidden to other roads.

MRS Flint, wife of Hon. Billa Flint, senator, died on the 24th at Belleville, Ontario, aged 77 years and 9 months. Deceased whose maiden name was Phoebe Clement, was married to Mr. Flint at Brockville in December 1827, and early in 1829 they removed to Belleville, and have ever since resided here. Deceased was a lady of exemplary piety.

The Department of Customs received a letter from Winnipeg enclosing $200 conscience money. The writer explained that he had on an occasion recently in crossing the boundary from the States, smuggled through some article, the duty on which would amount to the above sum. Since that period he had been unable to sleeep soundly with thinking over his guilt.

MORMONS are moving toward Mexico. Over one hundred families have already arrived in the Mexican State of Chihuahua, and more are on the way. It is said that these emigrants are from towns and villages in New Mexico and Arizona, and that they do not disguise the fact that they are fleeing to Mexico to avoid imprisonment under recent laws, which they are satisfied will shortly be enforced in other Territories than Utah.

THE disestablished movement has manifested itself in Sweden. The Lutheran Church, both in Sweden and Norway, is the Church by law established. Dissenting Churches have of late years, for various reasons, sprung into existence, and in some of the large centres of population such churches have developed considerable strength. With the growth of dissent has grown the desire for equality, and the jealousy and dislike of a favoured class.

A WINNIPEG reporter, wanting something better to do, went round among the prominent citizens the other day and asked them what they would do if they had a million dollars in their own right. The result of the interviews showed that there are stil many Winnipeggers who are ready to count chickens before they are hatched, and that the crop of town lot millionaires has wonderfully decreased since the boom of 1881 made so many residents of the Prairie Province believe that they were rivals of Vanderbilt because they had staked out their farms as town lots.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland has given a garden party with the politic and patriotic idea of having every guest wear a dress of Irish fabrics. The plan was successful and picturesque as well as from a Home Rule point of view There were poplins and serges and tweeds for ladies with trimmings of Irish ribbons and laces and besides wearing a morning dress of Irish cloth, gentlemen wore Irish felt hats. The Vicroy wore becoming grey Irish tweed suit and the hostess a cream-colored poplin. The children were the garb of Irish peasants in every variety of color. Eighteen hundred guests were present, Irish jigs, reels and hornpipes were dances, the music being rendered by Irish pipers and harpists of St. Patrick's.

THE CITY COUNCIL AND THE GAOLER.

Those who have carefully watched the proceedings of the City Council relative to the appointment of a City Gaoler, trivial although that appointment may be, must naturally be astonished at the extraordinary position a majority of our civic representatives placed themselves in last evening. It will be remembered applications were invited for the position referred to, and, in response, a number were received. At the regular meeting of the 19th ult., a little more than a fortnight ago, the question came up for discussion, the applications were read, a ballot was "spread" and the final result was, that NEIL HENLEY was elected by a majority of two over another candidate named McCLOY. At the next regular meeting of the Council, which was held on the 26th, the minutes of the previous deliberations were read and adopted in the usual course, thus confirming HENLEY in his appointment. Since then, and in fact on that occasion a good deal of hostility in a certain quarter has been evinced against HENLEY, it being contended that he was a newcomer and not so thoroughly entitled to the position as other applicants. Be this as it may. It is not with the relative merits and qualifications of the candidates we now have to deal. What we desire to point out is that after HENLEY had been duly elected and confirmed in his election by a majority vote of the Councillors, through some hocus-pocus business or wire pulling of which Councillor HIGGINS is believed to be the main manipulator, the Council last night stultified itself by summarily dismissing HENLEY on payment of sixty dollars for duties not yet performed. This is indeed an extraordinary position for the Council to have placed itself in and one at first blush altogether beyond comprehension, more especially when it is considered that there were no valid grounds for complaint against HENLEY as an officer of the corporation. There was no charge of incompetency; no allegation of dereliction of duty. But Coun. HIGGINS was chagrined at the appointment, and in order to carry out one of his political hobbies did the officer a great injustice by calling for his dismissal without cause, and did the ratepayers a still greater one by stipulating that the dismissal should involve the expenditure of $60 for which no value would be received. How the majority of the Council last evening could have accepted this position and absolutely stultified itself is something open for explanation. The precedent thus established is bad in principle, and it can only hold the Council up to ridicule. But to cap the climax, Councillor HIGGINS had the audacity to suggest, indeed, it was part of his resolution, that the Council should at once proceed to elect a new gaoler. The councillors were not, however, to be caught in this section of the trap, and it was very forcibly contended by Councillors GRANT and SMITH that there were in reality no applications then before the Board for the position. So the outcome is this: Applications will have to be again invited and an entirely new ballot taken at the next regular meeting of the Council. Then we shall see what we shall see.

THE FISHERIES DISPUTE.

The excitement caused by the seizure of the American fishing schooner Adams has partially abated, although the press on both sides of the line continue to discuss the question, and generally in a dispassionate manner. The attitude of the Dominion and Imperial governments is being watched with great interest and thus far the Canadian authorities, who are presumably acting with the knowledge and consent of the home government, seem determined to adhere to the terms of the treaty of 1818, and by every legal and justifiable means to protect the rights of Canada. During the closing weeks of the session and after the seizure, a bill was passed through Parliament by the Minister of Marine which enacts as follows;

"Any one of the officers or persons hereinbefore mentioned may bring any ship, vessel or boat, being within any harbor in Canada, or hovering in British waters within three marine miles of any of the coasts, bays, creeks or harbors in Canada, into port, and search her cargo, and may also examine the master upon oath touching the cargo and voyage; and if the master or person in command does not truly answer the questions put to him in such examination he shall incur a penalty of four hundred dollars; and if such ship, vessel or boat is foreign, or not navigated according to the laws of the United Kingdom or of Canada, and has been found fishing or preparing to fish, or to have been fishing in British waters within three marine miles of any of the coasts, bays, creeks or harbors of Canada, not included within the above mentioned limits, without a license, or after the expiration of the term named in the last license granted to such ship, vessel or boat, under the first section of this act, or has entered such waters for any purpose not permitted by the law of nations, or by treaty or convention, or by any law of the United Kingdom or of Canada for the time being in force, or having entered such waters has failed to comply with any such law of the United Kingdom or of Canada, such ship, vessel or boat and the tackle, rigging, apparel, furniture, stores and cargo thereof shall be forfeited."

The sole purport, as is evident, is to give those charged with the protection of the fisheries, ample power to carry out the existing treaty stipulations. The rights of foreigners are not infringed and unless the vessels of a foreign power contravene the law they cannot be molested. The New York Sun, however, does not like the new Canadian bill as will be gathered from the following extract:

"The provision authorizing Canadian officers to search American vessels—for of course the law is aimed chiefly at American vessels—is one that will never be enforced, should the bill become a law, without raising a terrible storm in the United States. Armed resistance would be the inevitable result of attempts to exercise the odious "right of search." Great Britain, however, would never allow that pretended right to be exercised by Canada. The war of 1812 and its causes have not been wholly forgotten in Downing street. The United States won't stand any such monkeying with the rights of American vessels in British waters as this Search Bill proposes. Canada's search for Canadian bait in American vessels would be annoying, though essentially ridiculous. It cannot be permitted any more than Great Britain would again be permitted to search American vessels for alleged British subjects."

Whatever the upshot of the present complications, our government have only one course to pursue—to stand by the bond. If a fair and reasonable interpretation of the treaty supports the stand taken by Canada, our American friends, as befits a great and enlightened nation, must acknowledge our claims and acquiesce in their strict enforcement.

A PATERNAL GOVERNMENT.

We learn that the Attorney-General has inaugurated the system of subsidising lawyers to defend criminals, by paying Messrs. CORBOULD & CO. of New Westminster, a fee of $200 to appear for a Chinaman at the recent Yale assizes. The retainer, of course, has no connection with the fact that MR. CORBOULD is to run for New Westminster city in the interest of the Hon. JOHN ROBSON.

PRINCESS CHARMIAN

"It is you I want, Susan—you are the wife for me, and no other woman. And do not think for a moment that my love for you has driven the thought of—of any one else out of my head. If there were not another woman in the world, I would not marry Charmian Dacre."

It is all over. There is no hope that he will ever relent when he could make a speech like that. And, now that I know Charmian's cause is hopeless, I do not care to hide my own feelings any longer, or my opinion of Lord Lorraine.

"I will tell you what I think of you—without any of that reserve you spoke of just now!" I exclaim, snatching my hand away from him with a gesture of contempt and disdain. "You call yourself an Earl; but I do not think any common man would degrade himself by playing the part that you have played. You have behaved cruelly, abominably, and I hope you will be punished—I hope you will suffer as—as you have made her suffer. I hope it! And—and that is all I have to say."

I turn away, miserably indignant, the tears pouring down my cheeks.

"Susan!"

I walk on steadily toward the door, as though I heard him not.

"Miss Ceventry, will you listen to me for a moment!"

He is standing between me and the door, so that I am forced to listen.

"You are carried away now by a—a very natural feeling. But remember, I do not take this as your final answer."

"You may take it as final. As long as I live I shall never speak to you again."

"This is mere childish folly!" he exclaims, losing temper a little. "You will change your mind when—when your feelings are not worked upon by a third party."

"I shall never change my mind. Stand out of my way, Lord Lorraine!"

"I don't think you quite know what you are refusing," he says, evidently putting some strong restraint upon himself. "You are such a child—what I offer seems of no moment to you—now. But, when you come to think the matter over, you will know."

"I do not care one pin's point for anything you could offer me."

"Not to be a Countess—to have every pretty thing and every pleasant thing that money could buy?"

"Will you be so good as to open the door and let me go?"

"I cannot let you go," he answers, trying to take one of my hands again; but I put them both behind my back. "I want you to be my wife, Susan—I want to teach you to love me, my darling."

"Don't!" I exclaim, with a sudden vivid recollection of Charmian's agonized eyes. "I hate you, Lord Lorraine—I have always hated you! And if you asked me to marry you a thousand times a thousand times I should say, 'No, no, no!'"

He retreats a step or two, an angry dark red flush surging up through his pale sallow complexion, up to the very roots of his sleek dark hair.

"I am sorry," he begins.

"And so am I!" I exclaimed, abruptly, and without another word walk past him and out of the room, with as much dignity as I can muster, and leave him standing there in the middle of the floor, speechless with rage and mortification.

Charmian does not ask me a single question when I meet her again. I almost hope she suspects nothing, her manner is so serene and composed. A great and sudden calm seems to have taken the place of the tornado of the morning, for which I cannot account, unless she has buoyed herself up with some new hope—some fancy that she may have been mistaken in her conclusions of last night—some idea that Lord Lorraine is only trying her, and will return to his allegiance when he considers her sufficiently punished for her miserable escapade.

But it breaks my heart to look at her, knowing what I know. I dread to be left alone with her for a moment, lest she should ask me what Lord Lorraine wanted with me, or perhaps—and I almost feel that this would be worse—demand feverishly if I did not think he was only trying her, only teaching her a lesson—if he would not surely come back to her when he thought she had suffered enough to expiate her folly. But she asks me no such questions. She never even attempts to study my face, so far as I can see, or takes any notice of the tear swollen eyelids, which no amount of rose-water will reduce to their normal size. I went straight to my own room from the interview with Lord Lorraine, and, first having locked the door, threw myself face downward on the bed, and cried as I had not cried since that day at Tranquilla, when I knew Jack Prentiss was Charmian's lover and not mine. But I paid dearly for the indulgence by the red eyes with which I was obliged to make my appearance, and which I felt sure would attract Charmian's attention as she sat opposite to me at the table. In this, however, I was agreeably disappointed. She neither looked at me nor asked me any questions. And, though I know only too well how vain any hope is with which she may be buoying herself, I am coward enough to be glad that she seeks no information from me.

We drive out after luncheon, she and I and old Mrs. Purefoy; and after that half a dozen of Mrs. Purefoy's clever people drop in and Charmian looks as lovely as ever in her pretty tea-gown of pink silk with cascades of Breton lace, though I fancy he looks a little pale, or else that particular shade of pink makes her look pale. As for me, I feel as one in a dream. It seems only the other day since I cried myself ill because Charmian took my lover from me, and now I am heart-broken because I have taken Charmian's lover, from her. The thought that I have received an offer of marriage, and that from an Earl, fills me with no elation. I do not think of myself at all—only of Charmian. All the afternoon I watch for her, wondering at the curious change which has come over her. If she could only forget the cold selfish wretch who is unworthy of her! If she could only think of the possibilities of happiness yet before her—of the wonderful world, her youth, her beauty, all that we two may yet enjoy together—of the true lover whom the future may hold for her—if she will only conquer this pain—if her eyes could only be opened to see the man she loves as I see him—as he really is! The day may come when she will so see him—may not be very far off, I think, as I look at her exceedingly calm and quiet face. Many a time afterward I shall think of her as I see her this evening, and hope and trust that this strange calm was not natural—try to recall every word and look, in search of proof that the brain was overwrought, or else to persuade myself that there was no thought in her mind then of the awful—accident I must call—that was to happen later on.

* * * * * * * *

I am standing in one of the windows in the front drawing-room after dinner, watching the great round golden moon floating up into the clear pale amethystine sky, while the Count de Roquencourt talks to me in his grave deliberate voice, with eyes as deeply blue as the violets in his button-hole, and one of Mrs. Purefoy's long-haired musical geniuses plays some Russian dance-music on the piano, which seems to me to have no melody in it, but the quaint barbaric rhythm of which takes my fancy nevertheless.

"You are thinking very deeply, Miss Coventry."

"Oh, I beg your pardon! Have you been speaking to me?"

"I only asked you if you had read Jules Verne's books about the moon. You seem to be contemplating some way of getting there, you are studying its geography so intently."

"I was not thinking of the moon. I was thinking how little some people are appreciated."

"Not Miss Coventry, I hope!"

I shake my head. I have been thinking of Charmian, and wondering how it will be if Lord Lorraine does not come to Earl's Gate place any more while I am here. I know now that he will never marry Charmian. He told me so deliberately—he said he would not marry her if there were not another woman in the world. His eyes have been opened—not altogether by that unfortunate trip to London—to the fact that she is not the wife for him. I am surprised that he should ever have erred so much in judgment as to suppose she was, being the kind of man he is. But how will Charmian give him up! How will it be when she knows that he has no intention of forgiving her—as she would count forgiveness—or of renewing their engagement? It will break her heart. And yet, if they were married to each other to-morrow, though she might be passionately happy for a little while, she would be miserable when she found how little he gave her in return for all that she gave him. How could my beautiful, ardent princess go on wasting her whole heart and soul for a man whom her tropical warmth of devotion would only weary—who absolutely dislikes the vivacity and animation and gay childish nonchalance of manner which has its origin in the sunny Southern blood which runs in her blood?

How Banking Is Done in China.

"Schroff!" shouts the clerk, and immediately answering to the term—not German, but a corruption of the Hindoo word Sarrof, bank's clerk—there glides forward one of the native cashiers, with smooth skull, a four-foot pigtail, and spotlessly white flowing garments.

He is silent and rapid in his movements, and though his scanty stock of English is scarcely intelligible, he satisfactorily carries out the transaction, in hand, your own complicated pencil and paper conversion of pounds into dollars and cents being easily distanced by the schroff's peculiar method of calculation.

Taking up a counting machine, his long lithe fingers move over it far more quickly than the eye can follow; he plays on it with the rapidity of lace-making.

"All right as regards the total," says the traveler. "Now give me 3 pounds in small change." For a supply of 5-cent pieces is indispensable in China.

A means has been devised for avoiding the weariness of counting out the 300 tiny silver coins representing the sum in question. A pile of them is poured on a flat wooden tray, containing 100 recesses, each of which is just deep enough to lodge one 5-cent piece, and shallow enough to prevent the possibility of two such lurking together. A jerk of the wrist; the 100 recesses are instantly filled, the surplus is swept off, and you have your correct amount, the schroff tucking up his enormous sleeves, as the money is poured into your hand, to disarm a possible suspicion that he is concealing any stray coins in their folds.—Foreign Letter.

Where Amateur Photographers Fail.

Anybody can make an exposure with a camera, but only an experienced artist can properly develop a plate. You know that when a plate is taken from the camera there is not a line to be seen upon it. The treatment must bring out the lines, and this work requires experience and care. The strength of the acids used should be proportioned to the strength of the light, the time of exposure, character of the subject, etc. The developing lines must be watched and nursed and coddled as tenderly as a delicate babe. All this has to be done in the dark-room, for momentary exposure of a plate to the light, either before or after use in the camera, is its ruin.

After the negative has been properly developed the plates are put in a 'fixing' bath, where the lines are made so secure that exposure to the light does not injure them. It is in this work that most amateurs fail. No man can be a good photographer who does not study the chemistry of the art and acquire a thorough understanding of the details and of causes and effect. Once in awhile there appears an amateur possessing the temperament and ability enabling him to master the science of the thing, but such as these are scarce indeed, and for this reason the jealousy which most professionals feel toward amateurs is quite ridiculous. As a rule, amateurs may be imitators, but they can hardly be rivals.—Chicago Herald.

The Possibilities of a New Cereal.

About eight years ago the Georgia state agricultural department received from Egypt a collection of African seeds, which were distributed among Georgia farmers. Included in the lot were seeds of the Kaffir corn, so called because it is the principal food of the Kaffirs of South Africa. A little of this has been cultivated every year by Dr. J. H. Walkins, who found it to be excellent for forage.

This year he planted an acre of it on the poorest land he had, which would not have yielded three bushels of wheat. Without any fertilizer, however, the Kaffir corn yielded thirteen bushels. He had some of it ground into flour and made into bread. The flour was fine and had a rich, creamy color. It was made into biscuit, egg-bread, and cakes, and in each proved delicious. Except in color, it was impossible to distinguish it from the finest Ohio valley flour. Specimens of the bread and cake distributed at the department of agriculture excited surprise by their excellence. The cultivation of Kaffir corn is likely to become large in Georgia.—Chicago Tribune.

Small Boats and Large Ones.

There is no denying the fact that small boats upset more easily than large ones. This is due to two causes. In the first place the small boat has no weight of stationary ballast away down in the neighborhood of her keel to keep her on her feet; and in the second place when heeled over exceedingly, her gunwale goes under and the water rushes in, throwing extra weight upon her lee side and tending to carry her over. The large vessel, having a deck, does not take in this water. It is practically impossible to upset a large vessel, properly ballasted, under any circumstances that are not very unusual. The chances are that her sails will be blown out of her bolt-ropes or her spars carried away before she goes over. This is especially the case in vessels of the cutter type, which have their ballast very low and which are stiffest when lying down on one of their broad sides.—New York Times.

New Disease of the Nerves.

Cosmophobia, or "dread of the world process," has been rescued from its metaphysical exclusiveness, and is to be studied as a nervous disease. A patient suffering from it is described by Dr. Vance in The Medical Review as believing that "the power of the world is a power of evil, and existence a frenzied carnival." He is troubled with "irritability of that part of the physical mechanism concerned in the elaboration of the intellectuo-emotional ideas," and is generally out of joint with the world, temperamental predisposition being a prime factor in the trouble.—Medical Journal.

The Appetites of English Royalty.

The English royal family are blessed with good appetites. They look upon four substantial meals a day as by no means an excessive allowance of food. Even at their 5 o'clock tea the wafer-like bread and butter that customarily accompany the syrupy Souchong or Orange Pekoe is supplemented by beautifully cut sandwiches, pate de foie gras, and other tempting delicacies, and every justice is done to them by the illustrous ones without in any way "spoiling" the elaborate dinner that is to follow later on.—Chicago Herald.

It is very difficult when poor not to hate poverty; but it is possible to be rich without being vexed.—Confucius.

The latest fashionable craze is modeling in prepared India-rubber paste or gutta percha composition.

REQUISITION.

To R. Dunsmuir, Esq., M.P.P.

THE UNDERSIGNED, Electors and residents of Nanaimo District, wishing to be represented in the Provincial Parliament by gentlemen who we feel have the general welfare of the Province at heart, and believing from the large interests you have amongst us that your services will be of much value to this constituency, hereby request that you will allow yourself to be nominated as a candidate for the representation of this district at the next election, and we pledge ourselves to use our utmost endeavors to secure your return.

REPLY.

VICTORIA, 7th May, 1886.

TO MESSRS. J. WEBB, J. PARGETER, W. AKENHEAD and others.

GENTLEMEN:—Until the receipt of your numerously signed requisition it was not my intention to become a candidate for your district, for I felt that you might consider my time was so thoroughly occupied with my own business affairs that your interests could be better entrusted to other hands than my own. I cannot, however, disregard the requisition you have so kindly sent me, recognizing therein that whatever has been lacking in my effort on your behalf you credit me in the past with good intentions, and express confidence as to my conserving your interests in the future. I cannot afford to refuse compliance with the wishes of so many who are residents of a district in which I have spent the best portion of my life and in which they and myself have a common interest. I therefor heartily thank you for the nomination and cheerfully accept it, and if elected I shall do my best to promote the well being of your constituency.

I believe that the Government which I have supported during the past four years has materially advanced the prosperity of the Province, and while their efforts are continued in the same direction, I shall, if elected, render them independent support, believing such a course will be in the best interest of the country and in accordance with the view of the great majority of the whole people.

I am Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
R. DUNSMUIR.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

While the TIMES is always prepared to give publicity to the views of correspondents on any question of interest to the public, provided facts are given, couched in unobjectionable language, we wish it to be understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by the writers thereof.

Nor can we give room to duplicates of letters that have appeared in our contemporaries either in this city or elsewhere in the province. Correspondents, therefore, will save time and trouble in preparing such for THE TIMES, as they will be rejected.

Our space is valuable, and brevity, as far as possible, should be observed in writing on any topic, and on ONE SIDE of the sheet only.

KOOTENAY DISTRICT.

Mr. R. L. T. Galbraith left Sand Point on the 17th ul. for Kootenay with a cargo of merchandise to meet the rapidly increasing demands of that important district. He would be there on or about the 27th ult., and would then return to Bonner's Ferry, on the Kootenay, to receive another load for his pack train. Mr. J. T. Galbraith stated to a reporter of THE TIMES this afternoon that nothing definite is as yet known as to whether his brother will be a candidate for legislative honors or not at the ensuing election. He is strongly advised by those who have his mercantile interests at heart to remain at Kootenay and not to sacrifice his time for the benefit of the political cause he has for years espoused. So far as there being any doubt as to his re-election in antagonism to the government, no such doubt has ever existed, except in the fertile brain (?) of the organ of the James Bay faction here and on the mainland. Lieut.-Col. Baker is the protege of the present administration, and on that gentleman James Bay rests its hopes and aspirations. The return of Mr. Galbraith, however, is well assured should he consent to be nominated, the blackmail of the Colonist notwithstanding. The mining interests of Kootenay are daily accumulating in importance, and apart from them there is a vast field for investment by the agriculturist. The valley of Kootenay is prolific in cereals and had the present government done justice to the district it would at the next election return two opposition members instead of only one, as we are credibly informed it will in any event do.

MAINLAND NOTES.

Per steamer R. P. Rithet this afternoon from New Westminster it is learned that yesterday Fraser River fell six inches at Fort Hope. There was a hail storm at Ladner's Landing this morning. The members of the medical profession have had a general meeting at New Westminster, to take into consideration the enactment of the last Legislature, hence the arrival to-day from the mainland of Drs. Davie, Milne and Tunstall. The catch of salmon near to New Westminster continues light.

REFINERY DEMOLISHED.

At 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon the fish retort recently built by the Washington Iron Works for the refinery at San Juan, exploded with terrific force. The head of the retort carried the roof completely off the building and almost demolished that structure, after which it flew two hundred yards through the air, taking off the top of a fir tree in its flight.

CUSTOMS COLLECTIONS.

Following are the Customs collections at this port for the month of May, showing a very slight decrease as compared with the preceding month:

Duties	$64,048 87
Miscellaneous	833 79
Chinese Immigration Act	726 50
Total	$65,159 36

THE KNIFE IN OTTAWA.

A man named Prior entered the law office of City Solicitor McTavish, and after a few words regarding a lawsuit the latter was conducting for Prior's mother drew an open knife from his pocket and plunged it in McTavish's neck, inflicting a dangerous wound just below the collar bone. After committing the deed he rushed through the main street of the city to the woods.

WORKINGMEN IN COUNCIL

Select Fifteen Delegates to Choose Candidates for Election.

A United Front to Monopolists and the Government.

The adjourned meeting of the workingmen re-assembled last evening at the Theatre Comique at 8 o'clock. The number present, although not as large as at the former meeting, was a fair representative gathering of the workingmen of the city.

Mr. J. M. Duval, the chairman, explained the object of the gathering, which was to select fifteen delegates, who would choose candidates to contest the city in the interest of workingmen. He referred to an article in the Post, which had stigmatized Mr. Haughton as a demagogue, and explained how that gentleman coming to the city "hard-up" could now sympathise with others in that position. He was not a candidate for any position, and should not have been treated in the manner he had. He called upon Mr. Powell to move the first resolution.

Mr. Powell said the workingmen had the right and ability to select their own representatives. Those selected by the delegates would be submitted for their approval at a subsequent meeting. He moved that a committee of fifteen be elected who shall receive the names of those wishing to become candidates, and choose from a ticket to represent workingmen at the coming election in the city of Victoria.

Mr. J. C. Blackett seconded the motion. He referred to the position occupied by working men as opposed to lawyers, doctors, etc. Doctors and lawyers had been protected by the government, but nothing had been done for the workingmen. The delegates selected would be required to subscribe to the platform adopted the other evening, and all parties would be expected to stick to the ticket through thick and thin.

Mr. McNab Stuart advised the workingmen not to mix with parties, and to give no more support to the next government than they did to this if it did not act in the interest of the workingmen. A laboring man now sat alongside of Mr. Gladstone, and there were such men in this city who could hold their own with the James Bay government, aye, and teach them too. All the workingmen of the city wanted was to select two candidates. They could, if they desired, elect all four, but two was all they clamed. Look at the statute books, and from cover to cover you will not find that anything has been done for the workingmen. Reference was made to the Ottawa government, and the effect of the protective tariff on the poor man, and it was claimed that the only way to cure the great grievance was by returning workingmen to power. One important feature in the platform was that so soon as a member was not in accord with his constituents he would be forced to resign. A pledge of this kind would not be disregarded; but if that was inoperative, legislation was recommended.

The resolution was then carried and the chairman called for nominations. The following were elected:

Jos. Wintemsworth	Thos. Haughton
A. J. Smith	Henry Budge
H. McN. Stuart	Arch. Dodds
Geo. Powell	Jas. Hastie
S. F. McIntosh	J. C. Blackett
And. Grant	Wm. Tierney
Robt. McIntosh	E. J. Salmon
Frank Campbell

During the absence of the delegates for consultation, Mr. West delivered an eloquent speech on the Chinese evil, which he described still as great and as complex as it was ten years ago. The Chinese problem had become more than ever a workingman's question. He compared the reception and growth of the labor agitation to the anti-slavery movement championed by Wendell Phillips. The latter had triumphed, and the labor question will ultimately have complete emancipation. The speaker closed by defining the meaning of the term "demagogue," and denounced it in scathing terms the application of the word by a city newspaper to Mr. Haughton.

The delegates having returned to the room, Mr. Blackett announced that he had been chosen as chairman, and that Saturday night next had been fixed upon for the first meeting. Any aspirant for nomination could send his name to the secretary before that time. He would be required to sign the pledge already specified.

The meeting then dissolved.

THE CITY POLICE FORCE.

Superintendent Bloomfield in his monthly report to the City Council states that since his report for April last four constables have been discharged from the police force and one appointed as gaoler, making the number of the force for the month of May, on duty, ten all told viz., one superintendent, one sergeant, eight constables and one gaoler sworn in as constable. During the past month two constables have been absent from duty, one during the whole month under suspension, and one for one week on leave. A special constable was employed in the place of the one suspended and also for four days in the place of the one on leave. One charge has been preferred against one of the constables on the first of the month for being off his beat during the night and for which he has been suspended for one month. None have been ill or absent on sick leave. The report then goes on to deal with uniforms and matters of incidental expenses incurred for supplies to the lockup.

A GALA EVENING.

Next Saturday evening, at Agricultural Grounds, near Beacon Hill, the Queen City Brass Band will hold high carnival. Lovers of athletic sports will be able to witness a half-mile running race between Scott and Vernell for $200; a ten mile walking match for the championship medal now held by T. Watson; slack wire performance by the king of equilibrists, J. Weiler, and horizontal bar performances. Dancing will be indulged in till midnight with superb music by the Queen City Band and everything possible done to make things sociable in general. The proceeds are for the boys' new uniforms and the price of admission being 50 cts. for gents, 25 cts. for ladies, is within reach of all. Refreshments on the grounds. Let all attend.

THE ROSE MAIDEN.

The second production of this cantata drew a small house, much to be regretted, however. The singing and performance in general, excelled the previous night's efforts. Flowers were in abundance, Mrs. Bamford and Miss Dobbs receiving the major portion, as well as unstinted applause. The proceeds after expenses are paid will not be large, but small favors are thankfully received and thoroughly appreciated by the Royal Hospital and its directors.

The Methodist Church Sabbath School Picnic on Dominion Day to Peddar Bay and return, $1. Tickets for sale at the Book Stores.

Just received Opera and Field Glasses, best quality. M. W. Waitt & Co.

THE CITY LOCK UP.

How the Police Committee Propose to Keep the Prisoners

Following is the full text of the report of the Police Committee read at the meeting of the City Council last evening: The Police Committee beg to report that they have had an interview with the government respecting keeping prisoners and have agreed to maintain only those who are sentenced to prison for any period less than one month with the option of a fine. Those who are committed for trial are to remain on the same footing as heretofore.

The committee have applied for the iron furniture of ten cells lately in use at the common gaol and have reason to believe that the government will make a favorable response.

Your committee propose to convert the upper flat of the Tiger house into a police barracks, to cut a door through the wall leading to the corporation yard from the Police Court room and to erect there a brick addition to contain eight or ten cells and a gaoler's office. If this plan should meet with the approval of the Council, the committee will invite competitive plans.

The committee would recommend that a telephone be placed in the residence of the Superintendent of City Police.

Respectfully,

Signed { D. W. HIGGINS, R. LIPSETT, M. HUMBER.

MARINE.

The American tug Mogul left for Tacoma last evening, having in tow the ship Belle of Bath and bark Emma T Crowell.

Welch, Rithet & Co., have the American bark George S. Homer, on the berth for Melbourne, to sail about the 20th instant.

The Titania has finished discharging piles at Port Moody. She goes to Departure Bay.

The ship Ocean King passed down yesterday, coal ladened.

The sealing schooner Mary Taylor arrived at 12 o'clock last night from the sealing grounds on the west coast, and will fit out here for a cruise to the Behring seas.

The sealing schooner Mountain Chief, arrived this morning and will also fit out here for the north.

The ship Belvidere arrived from San Francisco this morning bound for Departure Bay to load coal for San Francisco.

TRIED TO SHUFFLE OFF.

Ah Ching, convicted at the last Yale assizes for murderous assault on Mrs. Bulger at Fort Hope and Charley Lue convicted of murder at the same assize tried to shuffle of their mortal coil. They were both confined in the same cell and both failed in their attempt, thanks to the vigilance of the guards. Charley Lue had some little excuse; he might have expedited the day of his death in his attempt to suicide; but how Ah Ching could have shortened his term of imprisonment for life and at the same time have given the pro-Chinese lawyers a fair show for fees is one of those things which "no fellah can understand." Verily the way of the Heathen Chinee is peculiar.

RESPITED.

A telegram received just before going to press from Ottawa, says that Sproule has been further respited until the 6th of July, in consequence of the uncertainty as to when the habeas corpus case can be argued.

STEAMER SOLD.

Messrs. Croft & Angus, of Chemainus, have sold the steamer Buzz to R Ward & Co., of this city, for use in connection with Fraser river canneries.

THE SETTLEMENT BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—It is generally understood that Baron Munchausen has for a number of years been sitting in a warm corner on the other side of the divide, spinning his world famous tales to his brother stokers, but for the information of those who are not aware of the honor done this city, I am correct in stating that he has been a resident for some years in this province in the character of the editor of the Colonist, or at least his spirit has returned to inspire that dignitary. It will readily be acknowledged that his second advent is attended with the recital of more extraordinary untruthful creations than have ever been found in his published book. You were right, Mr. Editor, in your remarks contained in last evening's issue, that the editor of the Colonist would "in all probability return to the charge." From your experience by this time you must be aware that he holds his grip, like the species to which he belongs. Finally, I can prove by his masters across the Bay who have bought and paid for him that the Colonist has persistently misrepresented, as far as I am concerned, the incidents connected with the unholy Settlement bill.

JOHN GRANT.

CIVIC EXTRAVAGANCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Is it wise of Councillor D. W. Higgins to squander the people's money in paying a gaoler for services not rendered when the same sum, viz., $60, would have been sufficient to make Elizabeth street useful to the ratepayers living thereon, who have spent $10,000 for improvements and are unable to get heavy loads to their respective homes in good weather, let alone bad. The councillors have stated that there was no more money to be expended in Johnson Street Ward!

The ATTORNEY GENERAL

History of his Connection with Lillooet District.

How His Political Future was Ruined Beyond Redemption.

As a move, sudden and unexpected, has been made on the political chessboard of this district, a move that will end in a disastrous checkmate to its promoters, a few lines in reference thereto may not be unacceptable to you, especially as a communication from Clinton, published in your weekly issue of the 14th inst., will have somewhat prepared you. In order that you may thoroughly understand the position the one party has held against the other, that you may the better understand the bitter feeling of indignation that has arisen against the Attorney-General for his

COMPACT WITH NED ALLEN,

it will be necessary for me to revert to the time of Mr. Davie's candidature for the suffrages of this district prior to the last election. Considering, at that time, it would be greatly to the advantage of this upper part of the country did we elect a gentleman likely to obtain a cabinet position, and as none of the candidates then in the field aspired to the same, we selected Mr. Davie as the most likely of non residents to be returned, at the same running Mr. Morrison, an old and respected resident and former representative in conjunction. Once resolved on these gentlemen, no time was lost, no effort spared to place them before the constituency as the most suitable. At first we met with considerable opposition to Mr. Davie, first, his being an absentee and secondly the treatment meted out to his former supporters in Cariboo some years previous still rambling in the minds of many of the electors and fearing similar treatment would result to them should he be returned. By various lines of argument and no little labor we soon overcame the first objection and to the second considered it rather the

WAYWARDNESS OF YOUTHFUL INEXPERIENCE

than a wilful betrayal of a public pledge. Thus support was gained on every side, and we finally returned him at the polls by a handsome majority. Unfortunately, the over-confidence of Mr. Morrison lost him his return by some eight or ten votes. Grave doubt existed from the first as to the likelihood of Messrs. Davie & Allen working in harmony, the vulgar, overbearing manner of Mr. Allen, when subservicency would not the better serve his purpose, being but too well-known. Short was the lapse of time when these doubts were fully realized. It is needless for me to recall the course Allen pursued the last four sessions. The equivocal attitude he always assumed, both toward the government and opposition, his ever readiness to subserve his public duties to his

PERSONAL GAIN

are matters of notoriety. Last year, previous to Mr. Davie's visit, Mr. Allen traveled the district, placing the former in the most unenviable light, charging him with transactions he was then not guilty of, and interlarding his various addresses with the foulest opprobrium, at which he is such an adept; in fact, his whole line of action was marked by such a grade of billingsgate that his supporters could but look on him with disgust. At a meeting shortly afterwards, called by Mr. Davie at Clinton, the two members met, when a fair and satisfactory history of his statesmanship was given, proving how false were the charges made against him by Allen, and placing him in such a light before the meeting that his most ardent supporters declared him politically killed. At this time, the breach between the two appeared irreparable; their enmity (on the one side justly so) irreconcilable, and no one ever dreamed Mr. Davie would so prostitute his public position and stoop to so irremediable an alliance. Allen has all along harbored a bitter feeling towards those who did not support him in his candidature, and has never failed, by word or deed, to injure them whenever the opportunity occurred for so doing, whence the engendered in the breasts of all Mr. Davie's friends and supporters, considering as they do the course he has pursued a base and cowardly breach of friendship and faith. For what reason has this sudden change of front been taken? For what reason has the appointment of Allen's son to a constableship, over the heads of old-timers and men far more suitable for the position been made? It certainly cannot be a political one, as Mr. Davie acknowledged his former appointment to have been. The government never needed his support in the house, nor will Allen's services be of any assistance to his re-election; in fact, he will prove the reverse to be the case. Besides, Mr. Davie well knew his return was assured by his old supporters. No, it is not for any support politically Allen can render, but rather his silence that silence on matters the Atto nev-General would fain not have brought to the light of public gaze. At least such is the publicly expressed opinion throughout the district. The step he has taken is viewed by all his former supporters as a gross, a wanton violation of political faith and friendship, the interest of the district sold for the advancement of the private ones. That he has gained socially by the connection is doubted; that he has gained politically, he has not. He proved himself devoid of honor towards his constituents at Cariboo, he has proven himself devoid of principle towards his constituents at Lillooet. I may be charged with exaggeration, but rest assured the Attorney-General will find my word backed ere long by a far more potent authority, and that is VOX POPULI.

EXASPERATION AND RESENTMENT

HAS BEEN PURCHASED,
